

Sanner's Carbine Classic Christmas Match Report 12/21/2019

The first of the new series of carbine matches at Sanner's Lake Sportsman's Club kicked off with a bang! The weather might have been a bit chilly at first but the shooting was hot all day long.

This match tried to combine the best elements of both IDPA and USPSA style competition; challenging stages that allowed competitors to attack them as they saw fit with occasional mandated shooting positions to really up the difficulty. Every competitor was pushed, but accommodations were made for those who did not necessarily want to roll around in the dirt. Some stages had many targets and were a real mental game, others had fewer twists but pushed the competitors more physically, all with a high enough round count to blow the rust out of any safe queens!

Being the first official match for this series meant that the most important thing (besides having a good match and being safe) was making sure every competitor challenged themselves and their equipment. Whether you learned something about your rifle, your belt, or your mag pouches, or perhaps you found out that you need new accessories such as knee pads; if you had some kind of a learning experience I think we succeeded.

Included below is the link to the scores posted on Practiscore as well as a couple photos snagged during the match.

Special recognition must be given to Patrick Bauk as the top Active Duty competitor, Glenn Kahler as the high senior, and Andrea Swierczek as the high lady!

The next match will be December 28th. This will be a more traditional IDPA style match with smaller stages and a reasonable 80-100 round count for a regular match. Sign up information will be provided separately.

See you then!

-Jake Swierczek and Joe Maida
